Market Review

April delivered significant turbulence across global investment markets, largely driven by escalating trade tensions initiated by the United States. The month began with a jolt as President Trump's so-called "Liberation Day" unveiled sweeping tariffs, including a 10% baseline duty on all imports and much steeper levies on goods from China, the EU, and automotive sectors. The immediate reaction was sharp and punishing. The S&P 500 dropped over 10% in two sessions, and volatility as measured by the VIX spiked to levels not seen since early in the pandemic. Markets regained some footing mid-month after the U.S. announced a 90-day pause in tariffs for non-retaliating nations, though China remained a target. Despite a partial recovery, U.S. equities closed April down around 0.7%. The tech sector stood out positively, with the NASDAQ advancing 0.88%, buoyed by stronger-than-expected earnings.

International equity markets responded in varied ways. Australian equities fared better, with the S&P/ASX 300 Index climbing 3.60%, as Australia was largely spared from the most aggressive U.S. trade measures. Sectors such as Consumer Staples and Communication Services were among the better performing sectors in April, highlighting the defensive nature of these sectors under volatile market conditions. Banks were also solid performers, benefitting from inflows into the Australian equity market.

Japan posted marginal gains, supported by services growth, while European markets lagged due to weakening sentiment and economic data, with the STOXX Europe 600 down 1.21%. Emerging markets showed resilience, particularly in Latin America, where Mexico and Brazil outperformed due to domestic factors and perceived insulation from the U.S.-China standoff.

Bond markets mirrored the nervous energy of equities. U.S. 10-year Treasury yields were volatile, falling below 4% initially before surging to nearly 4.6% mid-month on inflation concerns, before closing at 4.17%. Australian bond yields mirrored this movement, ending April at 4.15% after dipping earlier. German 10-year yields declined for the first three weeks of the month, before levelling out towards month-end.

Credit markets followed the broader risk cycle. Spreads widened significantly in the wake of the tariff announcement but later compressed as some tensions eased. Investment-grade corporates outperformed high-yield debt, supported by solid fundamentals and limited refinancing needs.

Commodities presented a mixed picture. Gold soared past US$3,500 as investors sought safe havens, while oil fell 16% amid rising output and demand worries. Copper dropped sharply, but trimmed losses later in the month. Iron ore weakened due to fears of lower Chinese demand, while rare earths gained as China restricted exports in retaliation.

Looking forward, investors remain cautious, eyeing trade developments and policy shifts. Portfolio strategies are increasingly skewing toward regional diversification and higher allocations to quality fixed income.

The Morningstar Historical Corporate Sustainability Score is a weighted average of the trailing 12 months of Morningstar Portfolio Corporate Sustainability Scores. Historical portfolio scores are not equal-weighted; rather, more-recent portfolios are weighted more heavily than older portfolios. Combining the trailing 12 months of portfolio scores adds consistency while still reflecting portfolio managers' current decisions by weighting the most recent portfolio scores more heavily.

ESG pillar scores are displayed as a number between 0 and 100 with most scores range between 0 and 25. It is the asset-weighted average of the company environmental, social, governance risk scores for the covered corporate holdings in a portfolio. The scores measure the degree to which a company's economic value may be at risk driven by environmental, social, and governance factors. The risk represents the unmanaged risk exposure after taking into account a company's management of such risks.

The Portfolio Unallocated ESG Risk Score represents the unmanaged ESG risk exposure to companies assigned an ESG Risk Rating, but whose risk is not decomposed into environmental, social and governance components. Calculated as the asset-weighted average of the company ESG Risk scores for the covered holdings in a portfolio that do not have E/S/G risk scores, unallocated ESG risk is displayed as a number between 0 and 100, where lower is better. Together, the four portfolio pillar score data points- Environmental Risk Score, Social Risk Score, Governance Risk Score, and Unallocated ESG Risk Score- will add up to a portfolio's Sustainability Score.
